FROSH DANCE TONIGHT AT COUNTRY CLUB

Affair To Be Opening Event On Spring Social Calendar

Making their debut into the social affairs of the college the fresnman class will tonight present its "Thank You" dance at Oakland's exclusive Claremont Country Club.

As well as being the initial dance sponsored by the first year men, it will be the opening affair on the local post-Lenten social calendar.

Departing from the usual procedure, the dance will be given at the noted Claremont Country Club, located one block east of College Avenue and Broadway. It will be the first time in several years that an informal dance has not been given at a hotel.

LOCALE

Centrally located, the exclusive Claremont Country Club is situated 2 blocks off Broadway in Broadway Terrace.

Near the California Arts and Crafts School, it has two entrances off Broadway at College Avenue junction.

For those coming across the bridge, take the Moss Avenue road to Broadway, turn left out Broadway to College and Broadway cross roads. A sign on the corner aids the direction.

Moraga Quarterly Appears this Week

Issue Features Article By Professor Silva

Appearing on the campus on Monday of this week, the March issue of the Moraga Quarterly once again brings into the public eye the literary efforts of those intimately connected with the life of Saint Mary's.

Included in the contents of the magazine are a poem by Brother Victor Lucius, an essay on "Cathedrals of the Middle Ages" by James L. Hagerty, "The Romance of California History," contributed by Claude T. Silva.

Other contributors to the Quarterly are Brother James, Brother Cornelius, Brother Gilbert, Robert E. Williams, Brother Leo, Brother V. Leo, and Sylvester Andriano.

Silva Contribution Outstanding

"The Romance of California History" written by Claude T. Silva is one of the outstanding articles that appear in this issue. Mr. Silva points out the rare qualities of which California is possessed, the qualities which tend to make it a state that stands apart from the other members of the Union.

Holy Names College Will Be Guests At Tea Dance, April 17

Holy Names College of Oakland will be the guests of the local student body at a tea dance in the lounge on Saturday afternoon, April 17, vice president Al Shine announced this week. The occasion will mark the first tea dance held on the campus during the present school year, and as such is expected to attract an even greater crowd than usual.

Dancing will begin at 2:30, continuing for three hours. Refreshments will be served at 5:00 o'clock.

Music for the affair will be furnished by Frank Weir and his orchestra, a prominent bay organization. Several intermission numbers have been promised.

Baca Presides Over Depleted Ex-Council

With Cornelio Baca presiding in the absence of vice president Shine, the executive council met last Wednesday minus the services of several prominent members who were attending a gathering of the student affairs committee.

A brief discussion of plans for the coming tea dance with Holy Names College was held, with Bob Moran reporting that bids from several prominent orchestras had been received for the April 17 affair.

The meeting was concluded with the awarding of $10 to debate manager Bill Kirkham and with the decision of the council to aid in the financing of Collegian Sports Editor Bill Bettencourt's trip to Los Angeles in company with the Phoenix.

Plans Completed For Supper Dance

Date Set for Ninth of April In San Rafael

All plans have now been completed for the coming supper dance at the Dominican College at San Rafael on next Friday night, April 9. This was the announcement of Al Shine, student body prexy pro tem, who is handling arrangements for the affair.

Next Friday's dance, at which some seventy-five or a hundred Saint Mary's students are expected to be the guests of Dominican's student body, will be the first social meeting between the two schools in five years.

Following a specially planned supper in the San Rafael dining hall at 7 o'clock, dancing will continue until 11, at which time the affair is scheduled to terminate.

The dance will be of a semi-formal nature.

A canvass of the campus will be made this coming week by the members of the executive council to determine the exact number of students planning to attend. All who are missed in the survey are urged to communicate with one of the members of the council.

Student interest is running high for this affair, not only because of the comparative novelty of the meeting with Dominican, or because of the fact that this is one of the first dances of the semester, but because the well known graciousness of the San Rafael student body is enough to assure all who attend of one of the most enjoyable evenings of the year.

St. Mary's Club Completes Plans For Madigan Dinner

Edward "Slip" Madigan Will Be Honored On Saturday Evening, April 10th

Unprecedented in the annals of testimonial dinners is the overflow of requests for reservations to the dinner in honor of "Slip" Madigan in the Palm Court of San Francisco's Palace Hotel on Saturday evening, April 10.

The event is being sponsored by the Saint Marys Club and Joseph F. Fitzgerald has arranged a program of entertainment that will include the appearance of radio stars and acts from San Francisco's finest floor shows. Lew Miller, in charge of the ten-piece orchestra, will furnish the background music during the early evening, and will conduct for the dancing which will commence at 10 o'clock.

The principal speaker of the evening will be Cliff Anglim, San Francisco attorney and prominent state official. Many notables are expected to be present. Latest reports state that a Hollywood delegation will attend the dinner, including Charles Butterworth, a classmate of Slip's at Notre Dame; Ginger Rogers, who has always displayed a lively interest in the Galloping Gaels, and Pat O'Brien. Mr. Angus MacDonald, president of the Southern Pacific Lines, and who played for Notre Dame in 1893 is also expected to be present at the

Radio Commission Presents Variety Program Tonight

Winning state wide recognition for Saint Mary's college talent, the newly created Radio Commission has completed arrangements with station KYA and the California Radio System for a half hour broadcast entitled "Varsity Varieties," which will be aired tonight from 9:30 to 10:00 p. m.

After several weeks of preparation, Radio Commission chairman Walton Goldman has completed a fast moving musical variety show which has attracted much favorable comment from CRS officials as well as from student circles.

Appearing on the new show which will be heard over eight stations on the Pacific Coast will be Jimmy McHugh, campus composer, who will act as assistant to Goldman, the master of ceremonies; Bill Kirkham, campus broadcaster, Dick Vail and his Glee Club, Henry Neutzel, talented actor, Marty Kordick, local songster, as well as other campus talent, Goldman revealed.

Sophomores Lead College With Eleven On Honor Roll

With 2.5 grade point average or better, eleven members of the sophomore class lead the college with the most representative number of students to gain a position on the first honor roll of the spring semester's first quarter.

Lister in the order of their excellence, the following students are listed on the first honor roll:

Seniors: Frank Martin, Frank Salmon, Joseph L. Alioto, Brother Victor, Samuel Miller and Victor Strub.

Juniors: James G. Brady, John Reilley, Lynn Hull and Richard Moore.

Sophomores: Boyd Judd, John Sullivan, Joseph Donnelly, Brother Lawrence, Robert Moran, Albert Monge, Algeo Brill, James Dowd, Robert Fleitz, William Glackin and William Kirkham.

Freshmen: Joseph Carey, William Spehar, Brother Bonaventure, Francis Concannon and Thomas Heidenreich.

Second Honor Roll

With 2.0 grade point or better averages the following students are listed in order of their excellence on the second honor roll:

Seniors: Cornelio Baca, Brother Charles, William Simon, John Soares, John Hassler, Lester Groux, Carl Schuck, Parnell Buscher, Alfred Cinnelli, Gerry Dennerlein, Louis Ferry, Brother Joseph, Thomas Passantino, Albert Shine, Paul Barnes, Ernest Moreno, Robert Williams, Harry Zanoni and Elias Welch.

Juniors: William Bourne, Ken Coveney, Edward McMahon, Brother Virgil, Warren Jenkins, Wyman Riley, Lawrence Mana, Anton Boehle, Earl Fleming, Coleman Kezeli, James Rarig and Victor Wilkiemeyer.

Sophomores: Brother Daniel, Brother Bartholomew, Brother John, William Dooms, Brother Martin, Brother Edmund, Brother Matthew, John Williams, Fred Burrows, Paul Johnson, Edward Moore, Alvin Quittman, Robert Wimbush, and George Carter.

SLIP MADIGAN, HEAD COACH

NEW EDITOR FOR BRICK PILE SET FOR NEW YEAR

Fourth Issue Of Magazine To Appear On Campus Next Wednesday

Coincident with the appointment of a new editor came the announcement this week, that the 4th issue of the newly-founded student publication, the Brick Pile, is nearing completion and will appear on the campus next Wednesday afternoon.

Relieving Frank Martin, editor, and well-known Collegian contributor, Robert Mark, campus poet and novelist, will fill the position of new editor of the popular magazine, aided by James McHugh. The new officers will commence their duties with the editing of the May issue, it was announced by Editor Martin.

The April issue, being printed according to the schedule outlined by the founders late last semester, will bring to its readers next week only one new contributor to swell its already large list of authors.

Women Again

Second Occurrence

Invade Campus

You may now believe anything. The mountain has again come to Moraga.

Once more the monastic atmosphere of our little community has been shattered by the presence of overnight women guests. Last year when a team of women debaters from the University of Washington were the guests of Saint Mary's as represented by Mrs. Winonah Bond, for one entire night, the more conservative residents were of the opinion that the millenium had arrived.

But now they've done it gain. Not the same girls, to be sure, but from the same University. The time was last Tuesday night, when the ladies debated Saint Mary's on an educational question; and the guests, all young and beautiful, were the Misses Wanda Taylor, Evelyn La Motte and Naomi Hill.

The fair visitors expressed themselves as delighted with the college as a whole, with the attention they received, and with the accomodations made for them.

They left Wednesday morning at 9:00 for Berkeley to continue their tour; not, however, until they had photographed the campus from all angles.

OFFICIAL
Office of the Recorder

The senior examinations will begin on Monday, May 3, and the examination schedule will appear in the Collegian.

Senior Class Will Present Pictures

Featuring two entirely different topics, the senior class, under the direction of president William Simon, will present motion pictures in the lounge Tuesday evening, April 6, it was announced this week.

Edward Patrick "Slip" Madigan, director of athletics, will display a wide variety of motion pictures taken on his recent trip to Europe and efforts are being made to also present pictures of several of last season's football games.

Brother Claudius, well-known authority on the Southwest will show a group of pictures of New Mexico and the Penitentes, radical religious organization.

Both sets of photographs will be fully explained by the two faculty members during the course of the presentation.

Touring Debaters Win NYU Decision

With two triumphant debates with Eastern colleges under their forensic belts, the Saint Mary's traveling debate team of Carl Schuck and Joe Alioto continued on their way to greater heights this week as they swung towards Notre Dame.

Last Saturday they represented Saint Mary's in a radio debate with Fordham University which was broadcast over a national hook-up. Local outlet was KFRC.

Two days later they met the N. Y. U. team of Abe Tannenbaum and Paul Kahn on the national question. The locale was a Jewish temple. The three judges, one of whom was City Justice Lippe, were unanimous in awarding the decision to Saint Mary's.

On the following day they met Mayor La Guardia, after sitting on the bench in the morning with Justice Lippe.

Since Brother Albert has granted their request for an extension of time, the team now plan forensic encounters with both Louisiana State and Southern Methodist.

SENIOR TALK

Commander V. H. Ragsdale of the U. S. Navy has consented to speak before the senior class on April 7 at 11:05 a. m. on the subject of Naval Aviation.

Thousand Alumni Expected To Visit Campus On Sunday For Homecoming Exercises

Complete Program Is Planned For Entertainment Of Returning Graduates; Brother Albert Will Deliver Address Of Welcome At Breakfast

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Brother Albert, president, issued the following message yesterday:

To Saint Mary's Men:

Greetings! Through the medium of this issue of The Collegian, I wish to extend a cordial and sincere invitation to you all to attend our Homecoming Day, April 4th.

Homecoming Day has a special meaning and a distinct significance for all of us—especially so this year when our college is confronted with its maximum of difficulties. Yes, Alma Mater eagerly awaits your coming. She earnestly desires that you participate, to the full, in the program which has been so carefully planned for our mutual enjoyment and profit.

From the opening of the day, when we assemble in our beautiful Chapel until the last greetings are exchanged, a sequence of happenings will follow—each one conveying its own message and its own inspiration. The spiritual, the educational and the social phases of the program will be interwoven into a unified expression of the Saint Mary's Spirit. Graduates will have the opportunity to fraternize with former instructors, who will be on hand to extend a warm welcome. Expression will be given to new hopes and the pledge of loyalty to Alma Mater will, once again, be renewed by all.

Then, I would urge that you return to your campus on this Homecoming Day. It is imperative that we meet to discuss the problems of our college and pledge to her and to each other our mutual cooperation.

Sincerely,
Brother Albert, President.

With all arrangements for a memorable Homecoming Day completed, the campus today stands ready for Sunday's influx of alumni, their families and friends.

A program replete with outstanding features has been prepared for the entertainment of the old grads by the committee of Chairman Frank Atwill, Leo Cunningham, president of the Alumni Association, C. Wesley Davis, Gerald Lawlor and Emmett Guisto.

Breakfast to Follow Mass

Opening the long list of events planned for the day will be the celebration of Mass with General Communion following. The Celebrant will be the Reverend Joseph M. Coakley of Saint Joseph's parish in San Francisco.

At 10:00 a. m. the alumni will gather in the college dining hall for breakfast with state senator Andrew Pierovich presiding as chairman. Featured speakers of the breakfast gathering are Brother Albert and Cornelio Baca.

The president will deliver the "Address of Welcome," while Baca as ASSMC secretary will welcome the alumni in behalf of the student body.

Education Hour Scheduled

Furnishing the big laugh feature of the day will be the softball game between two alumni teams, one captained by Joseph Millet and the other by Dr. Thomas W. Fitzsimmons. The opposing teams will be known as Millet's "Delays" and Fitzsimmons' "Harfs."

At the conclusion of the softball game which will be limited to an hour by the schedule, there will be an educational hour conducted in D201 with William R. Lowery presiding.

Alumni interest will switch from

New Features Are Added For Senior Ball On April 24th

In an interview given last Wednesday, Bill Simon, chairman of the committee in charge of the senior ball, promised attendants at the ball an evening of enjoyment with several new and unusual features.

Foremost of these is the "table dance," an arrangement by which parties will be enabled to remain intact during the evening. Special tables will be reserved along the sides of the ballroom. Tables can be arranged for parties of six or eight. Reservations are to be made concomitantly with purchase of the bids.

Programs A Feature

Another distinctive feature of the dance are the programs. They are of an unusual type, and can best be described as "program favors." Simon said he felt that purchasers would be agreeably surprised with the new type of programs.

Dancing will be from ten to two instead of the usual hours of nine to one. This arrangement was made in response to numerous requests.

The committee has chosen the Empire Room of the Sir Francis Drake Hotel in San Francisco as the site for the ball. The date is set at April 24th.

After much deliberation, the committee has hired Joaquin Grill and his orchestra to furnish the music.

Al Shine has been collaborating with Simon in making the arrangements. Other members of the committee are: George Murphy, Bob Waters, Bill Tipton, John Giannoni, Francis Boyce and Parnell Buscher.

The ball, of course, will be formal and patrons are urged to make their reservations for tables as early as possible. In this way they will be able to secure the best locations.

Economics Head Speaks On Recent High Court Ruling

In a recent interview given to the Collegian, Professor Allyn C. Loosley, Dean of the School of Economics and Business Administration, said that he believed minimum wage laws for men would continue to be regarded as unconstitutional by the Supreme Court despite the favorable decision rendered by that body on the Washington minimum wage law for women.

Dr. Allyn Loosley

The local economics head stated, "Monday's decision of the Court in the Washington case seems to establish minimum wage legislation for women on a firm footing, and makes possible the passage and approval of similar legislation in other states.

"Some feel that the decision makes possible the approval by the Court of minimum wage legislation by the states with respect to men. This I believe, is not probable, unless the Court is willing to alter its reasoning markedly. Minimum wage legislation for women has always rested on the inadequacies of the bargaining power of women, and on the fact that their health is a matter of public concern, especially in connection with child bearing."

Case Differs With Men

He continued by saying, "In the case of men the courts have been inclined to feel that questions of public policy are not involved, and that attempts to interfere in the bargaining relationship between wage earner and employer constitutes an infringement of the freedom of contract."

Showing why the Court reversed its previous decision on women's minimum wage laws, Dr. Loosley said, "Reversal of a Supreme Court ruling is extremely rare. Fourteen years ago the Court, in the case of Adkins vs. Children's Hospital, ruled that a minimum wage law was invalid.

"The decision at the time was 5 to 4. Monday the Court, in the State of Washington minimum wage law case, held the law valid by a vote of 5 to 4.

"This decision on the surface ap-

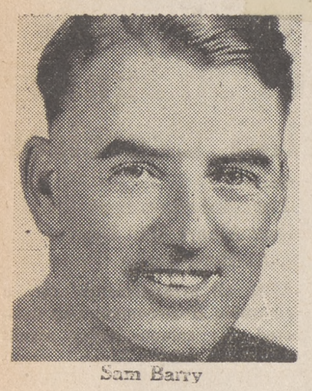
Gael Gossip

by Bill Bettencourt

(Sports Editor The Collegian)

HAVING licked Santa Clara and Stanford this week, the Saint Mary's Phoenix stand an excellent chance to place in the upper division of the conference standings.

This coming week the Moragans begin the last and toughest section of their 1937 league schedule. Facing Santa Clara Sunday, Southern California Monday, and the University of California at Los Angeles on Wednesday, the Phoenix can climb up to third place by winning all three.



Sam Barry

But winning these three conference games within four days is easier said than done. Still, it has been done before and it can be done again. With Marion Stolich, one of the league's most underrated players, and Gene Sullivan back in the lineup, and the return of Larry Webber to the short patch, we believe the possibilities of the Gaels placing among the first three in the loop have increased 50 per cent.

The Saint Mary's outfield of Stolich, "Babe" Barsotti, and Bill Murphy should prove to be one of the sweetest in the conference. Speedy, ground coverers on defense, the three are also among the best hitters on the team.

Too, it looks as if the pitching staff is beginning to live up to pre-season indications. True, Bill Yost was banged for several hits by the Golden Bears last Saturday afternoon at Berkeley, but, fail to give any moundsman support, including Senor Jose Gonzales, and see how many games you can win.

"Lefty" Flanagan and Bud Merrill are the other two twirlers who have proved their worth this week by trouncing the Broncs and the Indians.

If the Saint Mary's pitchers continue to pitch as they can, and if the local batters continue to hit as they can, then Saint Mary's will return from Los Angeles two weeks from tomorrow firmly entrenched either in second or third place in the final standings.

Baseball Conference Lacks Fight, Color

"Is Fighting Baseball Coming Back" is the title of a yarn which appeared last week in a national weekly magazine. After reading the story by Rabbit Maranville, we thought of a player on the Phoenix team for whom all of us visioned a great season—Gene Sullivan.

If "Mad-dog" Sullivan had not been injured in that early season practice game with the Athens Club, Saint Mary's today would have the most colorful and most "fighting-est" player in the conference.

And that's just what the intercollegiate diamond league needs—color and fight! It lacks both. Because of his brilliant mound career at U. S. C. "Goofy Joe" Gonzales so far this season is the only conference player engirded in color.

It's a good bet that, with Sullivan in the lineup all season, Saint Mary's today would be quite a few notches higher in the conference standings.

April Big Athletic Month for Gaels

April probably will prove to be the biggest athletic month of the 1936-37 college year for Saint Mary's.

Ending this month will be the baseball season and spring football practice. The fourth annual inter-class track meet is billed for the latter part of the month as is the annual intramural boxing bouts. And then the golf and tennis teams conclude their season's activities within the next three weeks.

Swimming BEGINS and ends this month. (Why must this be so?)

Lastly, Sam Miller also concludes his intramural events this month. Which means there's plenty to do before calling it another college year.

Ex-Saint Mary's Stars to Meet Frosh Nine in Annual Homecoming Day Game

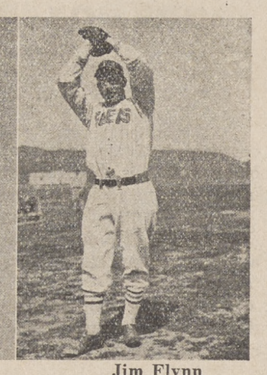
Sports Play Big Role In Traditional Celebration

When the freshman baseball team tangles with the Alumni in the feature sports event of Sunday's Homecoming Day celebration, more than a dozen ex-Phoenix players will see action for the Saint Mary's graduates.

Selected by Jack Bill of the San Leandro Bills, the Alumni team will be composed of such big Gael names as Eddie Burns, Harry Hooper, Louis Guisto, Red Strader, Walter Mails, "Wee Willie" Ludolph, Joe Oeschger, Jack Gardiner, Butch Simas, Booky Harrington, Joe Noonan, Tom Conlan, George Wilson, Bucky Harris, Ray Desimone, Jim Flynn, Bud Hanna, Jack O'Keefe, George Ackerman, Bill Beasley, Charlie Yore and several others.

Either Jack Sims or Emmet O'Neill will start on the hill for the freshmen, while Ludolph and Noonan probably will share honors on the mound for the Alumni. The game will start at 2:30 p. m.

George Wilson



Jim Flynn

The initial sports event on the calendar for the day is a softball game between two "all-star" teams taken from the Alumni ranks. Leaders of the two opposing forces will be Joe Millet and Thomas Fitzgerald. The game will start at 11 a. m. on Phoenix Field.

On Agnon Field, beginning at 1:15 p. m., competition for the James M. Smith punting trophy and for the William Fitzgerald passing trophy will start.

Lou Rimassa won the punting award last season, and Lou Ferry captured the passing trophy.

Soph Blues Meet Senior Red Champs

By defeating Dan Leary's Seniors, 32 to 31, last night, "Bing" Crosby's Sophomores not only won the championship of the Blue division but also gained the right to clash with John Valentini's Senior Reds for the campus intramural cage crown next week.

Jerry Dowd led the Sophomores with 12 points, while Dick Schuman scored 11 for the losers.

Both divisional champion quintets finished play in their respective classes undefeated, the Sophomore Blues winning five and the Senior Reds also winning a similar number.

Sam Miller announced last night that the winner in the play-off next week will meet the championship intramural quintets from U. S. F. and Santa Clara in the near future.

Following the post-season games with the Dons and Broncs, Miller will begin touch tackle football.

Acorn Now

Another old-timer slated to oppose the freshmen Sunday is TOM CONLAN, former Phoenix pitcher and property of the Oakland Acorns of the Pacifis Coast League. The Alumni-Freshman tilt Sunday will be one of the highlights of the annual Saint Mary's Homecoming Day celebration.

Phoenix Nine Wallops Hilltop Baseballers

For the third consecutive day the Gael tossers displayed an abundance of batting powers when they blasted the University of San Francisco tossers, 10 to 0, Wednesday.

Cy Greenlaw hurled nine innings of shut-out ball, limiting the Dons to a scattering of five hits and fanning nine batsmen. Greenlaw also hit two in three trips, as did his battery mate, Tony Boehle.

Walsh pitched for U. S. F. but was treated roughly by the Phoenix, as they maintained an average of better than ten hits per game for the week.

Gael Stars Studying At Southern College

Visitors on the campus this week were Al Nichelini '36, Elwood Lang '35, John Mallarino '35, and Jack Batt '34. Nichelini and Batt are former Gael gridiron stars, and Lang is a former Moraga cage captain and freshman coach under Vince McNally. Mallarino was a yell leader. The four are studying for teachers' certificates at U. S. C.

Phoenix Capture Games From Broncos and Reds

Flanagan and Merrill Pitch Victories Over Wolter's and Fitzgerald's Conference Clubs

Embarking on a minor win streak, the Gaels won their second and third games in conference competition this week by defeating Stanford and Santa Clara.

The Broncos were met first on Monday, submitting, 12 to 5. The Indians were slightly more difficult, losing 8 to 5 on Tuesday.

That victory over the Indians prevented a freeze out in the series, for Wolter's nine had previously captured two games from the Saints.

Bud Merrill pitched good ball, being solved with little success by the opposition until the final canto when four hits were productive of three tallies. Merrill bore down when the Cards came too close, and he retired the side.

Stolich Stars

Stolich's hitting was the feature of the contest, for he contributed three timely blows, including a double and a triple. He started the Gaels' scoring for the day when he doubled in the first behind a similar basehit propelled by Larry Webber.

Triples by Stolich and "Babe" Barsotti and a double by Gene Sullivan in the third, gave the Gaels a lead they failed to relinquish during the remainder of the ball game.

Bill Miller, most consistent of the Gael tossers, came up with three praiseworthy fielding plays to spark the Gaels in their win.

Eight errors marred the contest, Stanford being responsible for five of them.

Pitcher Merrill and his almost-a-balk motion to first base, proved baffling to Red outfielder Killifer. Picked off first base, he dashed for second. First baseman Al Fleckenstein threw to get the runner.

Head Deflects Ball

Killifer's head, however, deflected the thrown ball into centerfield. The runner remained on the ground in evident pain, but at his team mates' urgings, he galloped to third, having to return to second at the umpire's request.

Stolich again put the match to the fuse in the Santa Clara game when he doubled in the first inning. Murphy and Webber scored on the basehit.

Jack Flanagan allowed but five hits against the Broncos, but walked ten and hit two during the progress of the ball game.

Radunich's offerings were not baffling Monday, especially to Flanagan, who banged out three safeties to lead the offensive attack.

The Santa Clara game saw return to the lineup of Sullivan, the Gael's most hustling ball player. He was injected into the third base spot by Earl Sheely, Webber returning to his old spot at shortstop.

Sully hit well in both contests. His injured foot still bothers him somewhat, however. A possible home run drive of his in the Stanford game went for a double on this account.

Bronco, Bruin and Trojan To Engage Phoenix Team During Next Week's Play

Joe Gonzales Not Likely To See Action Because of Trojans' Important Clash With Bears

By Bud Brady

Three important contests confront Earl Sheely's baseballers during the coming week, Santa Clara, Southern California and U. C. L. A. facing the Gaels in the order named.

The Broncos will be met in the third and final game of the series on Sunday at Ryan Field, Santa Clara. In wild and wooly high scoring games the Gaels have twice beaten Justin Fitzgerald's boys and aim to sweep the series from their rivals.

Nick Radunich, ace righthander of the Broncos will attempt to avenge his recent pasting at the hands of the Phoenix. Radunich has been credited with both Bronco wins in the league and with the right support is hard to beat. He earlier downed the Bruins and the Trojans in the southland.

Face U. S. C. Monday

Monday next the Gaels will face the Trojans' one man band, manned by Joe Gonzales, the diminutive fire ball pitcher for Sam Barry.

It is unlikely that Gonzales will pitch Monday, however, for he will be strategically saved for Clint Evans' Bears, the Southern Californians' closest contenders for the pennant bunting.

Although Joe is the main attraction, the Trojans have several other classy ball players who were important members of last year's championship nine.

Hal Sieling, Richie Herzog, Alex Petrushkin and Dave Schwartz are experienced tossers of the visiting club, which last year defeated the Gael runners up.

U. S. C. found itself for a time in almost as unhappy a state as Saint Mary's. Highly touted before the season started, Los Angeles writers were expectant of a championship. When the Trojans faltered earlier in the campaign, criticism was heaped on their shoulders.

U. C. L. A. Here Wednesday

The other southern member of the conference will come to Moraga on Wednesday when the U. C. L. A. Bruins match hits, runs and errors with the Gaels.

The Uclans have an entirely different team from last year's aggregation, but have had fair success thus far this season with their new ball players.

Suski, a fleet-footed Japanese outfielder, is a good fielder and a surprisingly powerful hitter for a small man. This Bruin is one of few returning veterans.

Mathematically, the Gaels have little chance to break into the first division this season. Nevertheless, a satisfactory comeback would be able to at least pull the club to the front of the second division.

. . . So Up To the Plate He Walks---

Coming further than any other alumnus Sunday to attend the Homecoming Day ceremonies will be Pete Matson, T. J. Foudy's "famed psychological pitcher," a member of the class of '31, and a resident of Kansas City, Miss.

Hearing of Matson's decision to be present Sunday, Foudy yesterday related what he deems the most famed exploit of the ex-Phoenix player.

It seems that Saint Mary's was meeting California on Agnon Field one afternoon, and it was the last of the ninth, Saint Mary's trailing 3 to 2. Coach of the nine was Slip Madigan. . . . . .

Two men were riding the bags, and it was one down. Up next at bat was the pitcher, Matson, who was a good twirler but a bad hitter. So, Slip was about to send in a pinch hitter when Matson pleaded with the Slipper.

"O. K.," said Slip. "You bat. But if you strike out, you'll never pitch another inning."

Up to the plate, then, walked Matson—and hit into a double play.

Fleckenstein's Injury Hurts Gaels' Chances Against Trojan Nine

Earl Sheely's Phoenix, dogged with injuries throughout the current season, this week were again confronted with misfortune when Al Fleckenstein, regular first baseman, was ordered from the lineup for at least a week.

A previously aggravated back muscle was pulled from place in Wednesday's University of San Francisco tilt. Fleckenstein will not appear in the lineup against Southern California and will possibly be lost against the Uclans on Wednesday.

Although Marion Stolich and Gene Sullivan earlier in the week returned for service after long layoffs, the new injury looms as detrimental to Gael chances against the southern nines.

GAEL GOLFERS OPPOSE BRONCS

Moragans Still Seek First Conference Victory

Swinging into the last half of their league campaign, the Saint Mary's golf team tomorrow morning meets the Santa Clara stickers on the latter's home course, La Rinconda Golf and Country Club, near Los Gatos.

Still out for their first victory, after putting on their poorest showing of the season two weeks ago against a weak U. S. F. squad, the Gaels have had a fortnight's rest and are once again primed for what they hope will be their first win.

Had the locals played against U. S. F. the same brand of ball as they did against San Jose State, the last match, which went to the Dons by the tune of 8½ to ½, might have been a different story.

Playing under terrible ground conditions, with fairways wet and sloppy, and greens soft and hard to putt on, the locals were completely off their game, and even the usually steady golf of Bill Smith and Wally Benson failed to click.

The Gael mashiemen will be seeking not only their first victory of the current season, but will be out in search of revenge for the surprise 7-2 upset which the Broncos gave them in their first meeting of the season at Orinda a month ago.

Figured with better than an even chance to cop tomorrow, as the result of Santa Clara's weak showing against San Francisco and San Jose State, the local players stand a mathematical chance of finishing in a tie for second, should they take their final three matches.

Smith Receives 100,000 Tickets for '37 Grid Tilts

Local financial troubles apparently make no impression on Graduate Manager Bill Smith these days.

Smith yesterday took shipment on over 100,000 tickets for the new 1937 football season, and laid them away for future use in the fall months.

Next Monday, 50,000 football applications will be delivered to Smith's office, and all envelopes for the entire 1937 season will be addressed, filled with application blanks, and stored for immediate shipment as soon as the time rolls around for each prospective game.

"Our office," Smith said, "will be much better organized this coming year, with all of this preliminary work off our hands, which will give more time devoted to the duties of the moment as they come along."

Sam Barry's Team North For Games

Southern California's Trojans, defending conference baseball champs, arrived in the Bay area last night for a quartet of games with the four Northern California league members. The Trojans meet Santa Clara today, Stanford tomorrow, Saint Mary's Monday and California Tuesday.

Sam Miller to Seek Opening and Facilities Of Gymnasium Boxing Room For Local Fisticuffs

April 27, Tuesday night, was the date selected yesterday by Intramural Manager Sam Miller for the fourth annual intramural boxing bouts.

Aided by the Block SM Society, Miller plans to make the affair a huge smoker, which will be attended by faculty members, the student brothers, students and friends.

Miller will make arrangements with the athletic office today to lend the student pugilists the facilities of the gymnasium boxing room, gloves, and punching bag.

Students desiring to take part in the smoker are requested to sign up with Miller immediately. There is no limit to the possible number of entrants, "the more signing up the better," Miller related.

To add variety to the card, two or three comical bouts will be staged by local fisticuffers.

The date selected for the campus battles is exactly one week prior to the annual inter-class track meet, tentatively billed for April 30. Senior examinations begin during the first week of May.

PHOENIX BESTED THIRD STRAIGHT GAME BY BEARS

All hopes for a comeback which might allow the Gaels to climb to a more respectable position in the league standings, were again rudely checked by the Bear tossers last Saturday, 5 to 0.

Bill Priest had too much for the Phoenix batters, allowing them to nick his offerings for a mere trio of hits, none of the extra base variety.

Meanwhile, Bear batters garnered eight bingles off of Bill Yost, who last year won three times from Cal.

The Gaels contributed one of their three errors early in the contest, which resulted in a marker against them. McNamara had doubled ,and he scored from second on Sam Chapman's elusive bounder.

Big Bear Inning

The Bears' biggest inning occurred in the third when they scored twice on three hits. Priest led off with a drive through the box, went to third on DeVaurs' double down the first base line and scored ahead of the centerfielder on McNeil's line-drive single.

Orv Grimes, Bear third baseman, led off with a hearty smash to the far reaches of the park in the fourth and slid safely home for the only homer of the contest. Cal completed the scoring with another tally in the fifth.

The Gaels never severely threatened to score at any time during the ball game. Twice, anticipated rallies were laid cold by double plays.

Spartan Tilt Postponed

Scheduled for yesterday but postponed because of wet grounds, the Saint Mary's-San Jose State baseball game will be played at a later date this season.

Editor Believes That Gonzales Is Feared

Scribe Cal Whorton of The Daily Trojan says:

" . . . Some say that Gonzales has the Indian sign on all of the league teams. Maybe he has. It's getting so that all he has to do against the Westwood outfit is to throw his glove out on the rubber and let the score tender chalk up another Trojan victory.

"This belief probably is slightly exaggerated, but the fact remains, Gonzales has plenty of the old well-known stuff and with the support he usually gets from his mates, he can expect another successful season."

Annual Inter-Class Meet Set For April 30 on Smith Oval

Workouts For Event Start Wednesday With Jim Underhill in Charge; Seniors, Defending Champs, Favored

Saint Mary's annual inter-class track meet will be held on the James M. Smith oval on Tuesday afternoon, April 30, Jimmy Underhill announced last night.

Unless unforseen matters interfere, the meet definitely will be held on that date.

Workouts will begin in earnest next Monday afternoon, with Underhill in charge, assisted by Sam Miller, intramural manager.

Only the high and low hurdles and the pole vault will be excluded from the meet, all other track and field events being on the program.

Last season the Juniors copped the meet with 39 points, followed by the Freshmen with 31, the Sophomores with 29, and the seniors with 19. Which means that the Seniors will be favored to take the meet this season.

Following are the Gael interclass records:

100-yd. dash: Nichelini, :10.3, 1934
220-yd. dash: O'Laughlin, :22.7, 1936
440-yd. dash: Noble, :55.3, 1936

FIRST YEAR MEN PLAY CONTESTS OVER WEEK END

A heavy schedule confronts the freshman baseballers next week. This afternoon they meet the Bear babes on the Phoenix field at 2:45 p. m. Saturday they again engage the Bronco frosh who have already tasted defeat at the hands of the Gaelets.

Sunday, partaking in the Homecoming Day activities, the yearlings encounter the Alumni.

Last Tuesday the freshman journeyed to Santa Clara, where they drubbed the highly-touted Bronco yearlings, 10 to 7. It was a close contest for a few innings, but heavy stick work gave the Gaelets a large lead.

Starring for the frosh were Al Lingua, catcher, who hit 3 for 4, and Jim Boyd, first baseman, who connected for four singles. Defensively, Glenn Sinnott and Dante Andriatti were outstanding.

Lingua Leads Frosh Nine With .437 Ave.

Getting seven hits in 16 walks to the plate for an average of .437, Al Lingua, catcher for the Gael freshmen, leads his team in hitting. Jim Boyd, first baseman, and Glenn Sinnott, third base, are hitting the ball at a clip above .300.

4 MORE MATCHES FOR S. M. NETMEN

Schuman Says Team Will End High In League

Four more conference matches face the Saint Mary's varsity tennis team, two of which are slated to be played next week with the University of Santa Clara.

Dick Schuman takes his local netsters to Santa Clara Tuesday for the first match, and the Broncos come to Moraga next Thursday afternoon for the second.

The third league match will be played with San Francisco State here on April 17. Closing their season, the Gaels meet the University of San Francisco Dons during the latter part of the month.

Although his team has won only one game and has lost three, Schuman is confident the Gaels will place second or third in the final standings.

"San Jose trounced us," said Schuman, " but the Spartans are the best team in the league. We still can place second by winning the remaining matches on our schedule, and I think we will do it."

A change in the number three doubles team was made this week, the pair of George McPeake-Bill Davie beating the team of Brigido Taay-Tako Taira, 6-3 and 6-4, to place on the varsity.

Student Body Elections To Be Held May 6th

NOMINATIONS TO BE MADE KNOWN ON APRIL 26TH

Official Speeches On Wednesday, May 5

By James Brady '40

Student body elections will be held on Thursday, May 6, it was announced this week by the Student Affairs Committee.

Nominations are to take place on Monday, April 26, and final official campaign speeches will be made by the nominees on Wednesday, May 5.

The largest hat in the ring at present for the office of president is that of William Bourne, who is running with the full support of the Barney Google Terriers. Bourne is a prominent member of the debate society, the Phoenix, and is also one of the Four Spirits of Rhythm.

In announcing his intention to seek the presidency he said, "If elected, I am going to revamp the entire political organization of the school. My term in office will be progressive, dynamic and sensational."

At present writing, the only other definite candidate for president is Laurence Mana, editor of the 1937 Gael. Mana made no statement other than he was a certain candidate. It is rumored, however, that his policy is to be conservative, although he neither affirms nor denies this.

Irish Machine

Campus rumor has it that a new political machine under the banner "Erin Go Bragh" will support a candidate for the office now held by Joe Alioto. His identity will not be revealed until shortly before the nominations. It is further rumored that the Irish machine will spring a bombshell in introducing this candidates, both in his identity and his policy.

It is expected that, so far as is known, the battle will be between Bourne and Mana, discounting possibilities that the Irish candidate will upset the dope. Orth's withdrawal leaves the field without any formidable opponents at present, unless further intentions are announced before the nominations.

No Vice President?

No student has announced his intention to run for the vice presidency at this time. Al Shine is the retiring officer who has filled this post for the past year.

Sophomore president Fred Burrows, in refusing to run for secretary, said that his class would have a meeting in the very near future to decide who will be the nominee. He mentioned as likely candidates Ralph Jack and Leo Englert. The latter promises "to assume all responsibilities to the best of my ability."

Knights To Entertain NCCW Group Here

Inaugurating a brilliant post-Lenten social season, the campus council of the Knights of Columbus will entertain the junior branch of the Sonoma County council of the National Council of Catholic Women on the campus April 10.

Tentative plans include a picnic lunch in Justin Grove, a tour of the campus, and dancing in the lounge. The visitors will be under the direction of Miss Angela Shea, president of the junior council, and Mrs. Wallace McPhee, president of the senior organization.

Last Monday evening, in cooperation with the Berkeley council of the Knights of Columbus, the local group initiated John Wallace of Walnut Creek as part of first degree initiation ceremonies held in the council chambers of the city council. The Berkeley council was most active in the Bay Region during Holy Week, and was instrumental in the closing of city offices and business concerns on Good Friday.

First degree initiation ceremonies will be held on the campus April 12, with deputy grand knight Daniel Leary presiding, it was learned this week. Representatives of Berkeley council will be present.

Plans for the social musicale sponsored by the local council for the benefit of Saint Mary's parish church are nearing completion this week. Tentative date for the presentation has been set for April 20.

Brother Albert Announces Tour

Two Meetings To Be Held In Fresno, Sacramento

With the end of the good-will tour rapidly approaching, Brother Albert, president of the college, today announced plans for the holding of highly important meetings in the cities of Sacramento and Fresno.

The president said that a general meeting of the alumni and friends of Saint Mary's would be held in the capitol city on Thursday, April 8, at the Christian Brothers' High School at 8:15 p. m.

Meeting in conjunction with the Sacramento alumni unit will be the alumni of Stockton and vicinity, accompanied by Gael supporters from that area. The joint meeting replaces one originally scheduled to be held in Stockton.

Madigan to Speak

Brother Albert stated that a large crowd was expected because the clergy and all the high school students of the region have been invited to attend. The principal speakers will be Brother Albert and Athletic Director Edward "Slip" Madigan.

One of the highlights of the evening's enteretainment will be furnished by Madigan, who will bring a motion picture projector to Sacramento in order to show the audience some of the more interesting phases of campus life.

The four men responsible for the planning of the event are Brother Patrick, director of Christian Brothers' High School, Brother Lambert, faculty member, and William Feneran and Al Westlake, alumni members.

A similar meeting has been arranged at Fresno to take place on Tuesday, April 13. Once again the principal speakers will be Brother Albert and Slip Madigan.

Gael Publication Four Weeks Away

Full Cooperation Is Asked Of Students By Editors

An urgent appeal to all students to make deposits on their 1937 Gaels within the next week was issued by Lawrence Webber, finance editor, late yesterday.

"Publication of the 1937 Gael is less than four weeks away. It is absolutely necessary that we know the exact number of copies desired by the students so that the order may be given to the printer," Webber stated.

"Of course, the students will see the dire necessity and give us their fullest cooperation in this respect. Deposits on the yearbooks may be given to any one of the fifteen sales men."

Baseball To Be Complete

While recently it was intimated that the Gael might be published at a very early date, publication has been postponed about a week at the request of Sports Editor John Henning, so as to include a complete report of the Phoenix.

Henning stated, "The yearbook would not be complete in any sense of the word unless it included all the material on the baseball team."

At the present date, publication of the yearbook is set for the first of May when it will be distributed to the students.

Finances Fair

While from the financial angle the Gael will probably be able to meet all of its expenses, no great profit will be realized from the endeavor, it was indicated by Lawrence Mana, editor. "Expenses have been much greater than in the past," Mana said, "and the staff has pursued the policy that all money realized should be spent in making the Gael a better book."

It is felt by many that the Gael will not only be of the high calibre of past Gaels but will probably surpass them in its beauty and vitality.

Keith Gallery Gets New Landscape

The donation of another landscape painting by Keith was announced this week by Brother Cornelius, head of the Art Department. The donor, Mrs. John Galen Howard, is the wife of the late J. G. Howard, noted architect and designer of many of the present University of California buildings.

Together with the new picture, Mrs. Howard loaned the Keith Gallery another of the famed painter's works entitled, "California Oaks," Brother Cornelius revealed.

In commenting on the pictures, Brother Cornelius stated that the "California Oaks" picture was originally given to a Rev. Joseph Wooster by Keith. The minister was residing on Russian Hill in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake and Mr. Howard, then living in Berkeley, offered his home as a temporary refuge for the minister. In gratitude for this favor, Wooster gave the painting to Howard. Brother Cornelius stated that the new picture came directly from the Howard gallery in Berkeley where it had remained since the San Francisco earthquake and fire.

Student Players To Offer Radio Drama

Plans for the production of the Shakespearian play "Henry the Fourth" by the Saint Mary's Radio Players, were announced this week by Bob Arnold, Radio Commission Play director.

The play will be aired over a local station and will afford local dramatic talent a chance to present their efforts to a large audience, Chairman Goldman stated.

The final selection of the cast will be made this week and rehearsals will begin immediately, Arnold said.

Arrangements for the procuring of radio time over an Eastbay station will be completed next week, by the Radio Commission, it was added.

Saint Mary's Club

SALUTE—It seems "Only Yesterday" that Edward Patrick 'Slip' Madigan arrived at Saint Mary's. But it was sixteen years ago, in April.

Thumbing through a newspaper filed in 1921, we ran across an obscure announcement of a new coach for the Saints—not then known by their colorful name—The Galloping Gaels.

The new coach was from a small school, Columbia of Portland, Oregon, and his new job was nothing to write home about. All he had to do, to figure out, was how to field a football team from the remnants of a squad that the year previous had been massacred by a "wonder team' by the score of 127 to 0.

Slip's story from that day is history—well known to all of us. How, with each succeeding year he fielded a team, splendidly coached, but more than that, a team possessed of a dogged, never-say-die spirit that excited the imagination of thousands of sports lovers and attracted a following unique in the annals of the sport.

In face of obstacles that would have discouraged a man with less intestinal fortitude, Slip has carried on in a manner that has evoked the praise and admiration of all who know him.

Edward Patrick Madigan has played his part in the growth of Saint Mary's College. To him, the Dean of Pacific Coast Coaches, on the eve of his sixteenth consecutive year at Saint Mary's, we offer our salute!

RESERVATIONS—"Make your reservations early" is a much overworked statement, but in this instance it means just what it says.

Requests for places at Slip's Testimonial Dinner are literally pouring in—we want every one to know that, so when we are forced to suspend the sale of tickets due to lack of space we will feel content in that we have done our best to impress everyone with the magnitude of the affair.

ORCHIDS—The fan mail received relative to Slip's party has contained many laudatory comments of the idea to honor Slip with this Testimonial.

A composite salutation of the majority of letters received reads something like this:

". . . and my check for reservation is enclosed. I know Slip's dinner will be a tremendous success. It certainly should be."

Then, too, there are a few who find is impossible to be present, but writs, "I wish you every success . . . on that evening. Say 'Hello' to Slip for me and apologize for what will be my unavoidable absence."

Another reads, "May he long be with Saint Mary's. I am proud to have rubbed shoulders with him, aye and above all, to be able to call him friend."

Sam Hayes, the Richfield Reporter, writes, "I know the dinner will be a tremendous success and when you see Slip, please tell him for me that though I wasn't there in person, I was in spirit.'

THANKS—The last issue of the Collegian wrote finis to the term of Elias Welch as editor. The Club wishes to acknowledge their gratitude for his many considerations during the year, and for his willing cooperation at all times.

To Dan Leary, circulation manager, our thanks also. After pounding out 2000 wrappers on the Addressograph each week for thirty-three issues, he probably has developed a lethal right hand. If not that, surely a man-sized callous.

Alumni Notes

CONDOLENCES

The membership of the association received with deep regret the notice of the death of Daniel McGanney of the class of '85. Mr. McGanney was from the day of his graduation, one of the most active members of the alumni. For several years prior to his death he was Clerk of the District Court of Appeals of the State of California with offices in San Francisco. The alumni association wishes to take this opportunity to express its sincere sympathy to the members of his family and to his host of friends.

AGNON MEMORIAL

It has been decided by the Board of Directors that the annual Homecoming Day shall be the scene of the official presentation of the Agnon Memorial Library to the college. As was announced previously in this column this library, which is to be composed entirely of books on philosophical subjects, is being donated to the college as a result of a campaign conducted under the auspices of the alumni association to create a memorial to the memory of Brother Agnon, former professor of Philosophy at the college.

At the present time some three hundred volumes have been purchased and more are to be selected in the near future. The committee wishes to emphasize that the memorial is in no sense complete but that a permanent fund has been created to which contributions may be made at any time. The aim of the Committee is to build, over a period of years, one of the finest libraries upon this subject in the vicinity.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS TO MEET

The Board of Directors of the Association will meet on Tuesday evening, April 6, at the Maison-Paul Grill in San Francisco. As many matters of great importance are to be discussed it is hoped that all of the directors who live in the vicinity will be in attendance.

Mention that you saw it advertised in The Collegian.

Interview

last year, in the State of New York minimum wage law case, the Court held that the law was invalid. It is claimed by some, however, that the New York case did not present the same opportunity to the Court as did the Washington case.

"In the New York case a reversal of the Adkins vs. Children's Hospital case was not asked, and it was insisted that the New York law differed from that of the 1923 case. In the Washington case there was apparently no such claim. The decision in the Washington case rested on the principle that the state is operating within its proper sphere in protecting women from exploitation, a principle that was overcome in the Adkins case by the ruling of the Court that the minimum wage provisions constituted an infringement of freedom of contract," Dr. Loosley further stated.

Many Attemps to Pass Laws

Although minimum wage legislation has made headway in other countries, here in the United States there has been a disposition to rule in favor of freedom of contract and non-interference with the bargain between the wage earner and the employer.

Such minimum wage legislation as there has been, has been confined to women, whose lack of bargaining power and social importance have been clearly recognized by the courts.

Giving the history of the minimum wage movement in the country, Dr. Loosley said, "Massachusetts in 1912 passed the first American minimum wage law, and was followed by eight states in 1913. Nebraska and Texas subsequently repealed their laws, in Ohio the law was defeated, and in the case of Adkins vs. Children's Hospital in 1923, the District of Columbia law was held invalid by the Supreme Court.

"In 1914 the Oregon Supreme Court, in Settler vs. O'Hara, held that the validity of hour regulation, as decided in Muller vs. Oregon, applied with equal force to the women's minimum wage law, and that it was within the police power of the legislature as tending to guard public health and public morals.

"Here the decision rested on woman's weakness as a bargainer and the social importance of preserving her health. Two years later the case came before the United State Supreme Court. Justice Brandeis disqualified himself in this particular case, and the court voted 4 to 4. No opinion was rendered and the statute remained valid."

Courts Uphold Laws

As a result of the precedent established in the Oregon case, other state courts upheld minimum wage laws on the basis of the Oregon decision. Up until 1923, then, the constitutionality of minimum wage legislation for women was regarded as well established.

FROSH DANCE

ent, class president Tom Feeney stated, "In presenting this dance, we plan to outclass by far any previous affair presented by any freshman class. We have obtained a fine orchestra and have prepared many novel features to add to the evening's entertainment."

Bob Perkin's orchestra from Berkeley will furnish the music, Feeney stated. Although he has never played at a Saint Marys dance, he is well known in bay region collegiate circles, it was said.

As has been the custom for a number of years, no corsages will be permitted.

The "Thank You" dance is given by the yearlings in return for the Frosh Welcome Dance tendered by the Sophomore class at the opening of college in September.

Bids, at one dollar, may be purchased this afternoon from any of the committeemen, or at the door tonight, Feeney stated. Dancing will begin at nine and continue until one. It will be informal.

Dates Arranged

Arrangements have been made with the College of the Holy Names to provide dates in order that all freshmen may attend. A limited number of rides will also be available.

Patrons and patronesses of the affair are: Father Cantillion of Saint Columbo's Church, Berkeley, Brother Patrick, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Le Fevre, Mr. and Mrs. Claude T. Silva, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Underhill, and Professor M. Joseph Foran.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements are: Bill Fitzgerald, Ed Carroll, Jim Brady, August Gaspar, Bernard Siefker, Ed Chilgren, Frank Roderick, Leo Cooney and Tom Feeney.

EDUCATION IS DISCUSSED IN DEBATE HERE

Washington Women Meet Local Squad Under New Symposium System

Tuesday night in the lounge Bill Simon and Wyman Riley upheld the negative of the question, "Resolved, That education to the age of twenty-one should be compulsory," against Misses Evelyn La Motte and Wanda Taylor of the University of Washington.

Because of a mix-up in the forensic schedule, the local team was notified of the engagement on very short notice, giving them little time to prepare a defense against the northern team. In the debate the new "Symposium Debate," a style peculiar to the forensic teams of the University of Washington, was used Tuesday night. Briefly this system is characterized by a combination of cross-examination and eventual analysis, by a member of the affirmative team. The University of Washington debate was concluded by an open forum conducted by debate chairman Bill Glackin.

Another northern team,from Linfield College, Oregon, visited the campus the following evening, Wednesday, arguing on the negative of the question, "Resolved: That co-education has been a failure in U. S. colleges and universities." Henry Neutzel and Vic Wilkiemeyer of Saint Mary's upheld the affirmative of the question. This was the first Linfield College team on the Moraga campus since 1935 when Phil Quittman and Joe Cassidy represented Saint Mary's.

Debate With Mills

Next Tuesday Mills College will send a team to the college to meet Bill Glackin and Wyman Riley on the question, "Resolved: That the girl should pay fifty per cent of the date expenses." This debate promises to be of parallel interest to the recent "Hilken Debate" which attracted 200 to the student lounge. Mills College has never before sent a debate team to Saint Mary's and interest is high in anticipation of the coming Mills representatives.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday Bill Simon and Lawrence Mana will represent Saint Mary's at the student speech congress at Berkeley. This speech congress is an annual affair, the third to be held, and is conducted in imitation of the state legislature at Sacramento. It will include representatives from California, Stanford, U. S. C., U. C. L. A., etc., is non-competitive, and conducted for the purpose of achieving a better understanding of existing state laws. Mana and Simon, two of the college's best debaters, have been preparing for some time for this congress and are looking forward with anticipation to the affair.

President Commends Ex-Collegian Editor

In a letter to Elias P. Welch, retiring editor of the Saint Mary's Collegian, Brother Albert this week expressed his appreciation for the work Welch has done in the past year on the school publication.

"I feel," said the president of the college, "that you have done admirably well — that you have made the role of editorship that much more difficult for your worthy successor to emulate you . . . You not only maintained the standards of your predecessors but even improved the publication in many respects."

Welch surrendered the rein of editorship to Wyman Riley last week. This isue is the first of the new regime.

Rt. Rev. Timothy Callaghan
SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE

Monsignor Callaghan Dies At San Mateo

Death called Monsignor Timothy Callaghan yesterday at San Mateo where he had been pastor of Saint Matthews church for more than half a century. Monsignor Callaghan, one of Saint Mary's most loyal friends and benefactors, had served God and the Church for 67 years. He was 91 years of age at the time of his death.

H was born in Ireland, October 16, 1845. He studied for the priesthood at Saint Coleman's in Ireland, was ordained on June 24, 1869.

Coming straight to San Francisco, he was assistant pastor at Saint Mary's Cathedral in that city, going from that parish to the Church of Saint Rose in Santa Rosa. He was the first pastor of Saint Burgoid's in Sacramento, leaving that parish to assume the duty of pastor at Saint Matthews in San Mateo in 1885. The title of Monsignor was conferred upon him last October by Archbishop Mitty.

Monsignor Callaghan has long been a friend and benefactor of Saint Mary's College, being the outstanding contributor to the library.

The body will lie in state at Saint Matthew's Church, San Mateo, until Saturday morning. The funeral will take place 10 a. m. Saturday from that church. He will be buried in San Mateo.

Brother Albert, president of the college, together with several members of the faculty, will attend.

Freshman Magazine Meets With Delays

The freshman annual, scheduled to make its initial appearance on the campus April 10, this week encountered difficulties in the forms of expense and material contributed by the first year authors.

A careful check of expenses revealed the original estimated cost of the magazine exceeded by three times its amount, but in a session with editor Joe Carey, the class authorized him to carry on the work at any cost. During the course of the meeting, held Tuesday, March 23, members of the class were urged to make suggestions for a name for the new publication.

It is believed, however, that the first freshman annual ever to be issued at Saint Mary's will be for sale on the campus before the end of the month.

Campus KC To Give April Performances

In cooperation with the local council of the Knights of Columbus, the Saint Mary's Glee Club will display its talents in several off-campus performances during the month of April.

April 5, the Club will furnish entertainment for Chaplain's night at the Berkeley council's clubrooms. An extensive program has been outlined by Albert DeClerq, lecturer of the city council to include several choral numbers by the group under the direction of Dick Vail and James McHugh. The students will be welcomed at the affair by Ed LaBerge.

Tuesday evening, April 6, the Glee Club will be guests and entertainers of the Oakland council, headed by Grand Knight William McGuiness, at a program planned by Phillip B. Anderson.

Aiding in the student campaign now being conducted by Brother Albert, the Knights of Columbus of Alameda, under the leadership of John Zboyovsky, grand knight, Thursday, April 8, will present a program featuring campus talent before an audience composed of senior students of Alameda High School and students from Saint Joseph's High School. Members of the local council, Dan Leary, deputy grand knight, Ed Nevin and Bob Waters will speak before the assembly, and the Glee Club will again provide musical entertainment.

the classroom to the athletic field at 1:15 p. m. when the football exhibition will get under way. Included in the exhibition will be a punting and passing contest, and a light scrimmage.

Gael gridders will compete for the coveted James M. Smith punting trophy, and the equally desireable Wm. J. Fitzgerald trophy awarded to the best passer on the squad. In charge of the exhibition will be Charles "Red" Scheflin, former Gael grid great.

Bringing the afternoon's sporting events to a close, the alumni nine captained by Jack Bill will meet the local frosh on Agnon Field at 2:30 p. m. At 5:00 p. m. President Leo A. Cunningham of the Alumni Association will call a general meeting of the alumni to order in D201.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be held in the college chapel at 6:00 p. m., followed by dinner in the college dining room.

The luminaries at the dinner table will be Frank Atwill, toastmaster; Brother Z. Leo, representing the faculty; Wm. J. Fitzgerald, representing the "Old Timers"; and Wm. Fischer acting in a similar capacity for the more recent graduates.

In an open letter to all alumni the chairman of the Day Frank Atwill says: "I do not consider it necessary to urge an alumnus to attend Homecoming Day. Rather it should be considered a privilege and require only a mere announcement of the day to crowd the campus with Saint Mary's alumni—not only to meet former friends and classmates, but to show that we sincerely appreciate the efforts of the Brothers, who make this day possible."

Mr. Atwill concludes his letter with, "Let's make this Homecoming Day one that will go down in history. We not only need your help to accomplish this, but we want to show the world that Saint Mary's College will be teaching men in the Moraga Valley for all time to come."

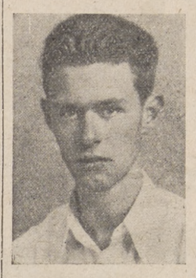
Senior Sketches

By LAURENCE MANA

A scant week ago editor of the Saint Mary's Collegian, foremost college weekly on the Coast according to more than one authority, Elias Welch today stands on the threshold of a new life. Such is the way of college activity. Having conquered at college, fate now thrusts him into the world to win new laurels.



Elias Welch

It might suffice to say that Elias Welch was editor of the Collegian, but that in no way would give a true picture of its growth under his colorful management nor would it serve to show the increase of student interest in the college paper during the past year.

Under the editorship of Elias Welch progress was fast and continuous until today the Collegian far surpasses any other ever to appear on the campus.

Few could have imagined that the freshman who one day walked as only he can walk, into the recorder's office less than four years ago fresh from Alameda High, and registered under the Biblical name of Elias Welch, would have definitely established himself in the whirl of college activity, but since when have capabilities been noticed early in you and by unscrutinizing eyes?

But with eagerness unprecedented among students, Elias set out along the path of true achievement, and his junior year found him news editor of the Collegian, just one step out of the editor's shoes, a member of the APGU and the Economics Honor Society, campus literary and honor societies, and one of the "fellows" looked upon to do great things in his senior year.

In writin "30" to our former boss, we do so not unknowing the tribulations which have best him in his position as editor. Few with responsibility are ever completely freed from these worries. Sacrifice has been the keynote of his entire career — sacrifice best known by them who have had the good fortune to work under him.

Surely we've despised him when he hounded us for copy or forced us to rewrite what was not up to par, but always with a sense of a little brother looking up to his elder brother for guidance. We were wont to be lax with our cooperation at times; the fact that long before this we have not been fired proves the true virtue of patience which God has bestowed upon him.

Many anecdotes could be retold from the career of Elias Welch, journalist and honor student, and they would serve to show every student the value of extra-curricular work in college life—what is college without it? — and long will they serve to keep his name alive together with those of the other editors who have had their fling and are now in the wide world bringing fame and glory to Saint Mary's.

Moraga Quarterly Appears this Week

A brief sketch of the men who grew with California, Cortez, Cabrillo, Vizcaino and Serra, and others is given by the author. Much is made of the motives that inspired Cortez to the heights, of Cortez' ability to drive others, of his quest for the famous land of the Amazons known as Califia.

Professor Silva divides the history of California into two stages, the mythical and the real. He states that is was in the second period of its history that the dream of California was realized.

Pictured in mythology as an island, an island it became; for surrounded by a sea of deserts it was very difficult to reach. Once peopled it formed a little dream community of its own. Its missions and its ranch houses breathed an individuality into its architectural forms and its pastoral attraction became fixed.

In closing, Professor Silva points out that we of the third period in California's romantic history are the ones who have received this heritage of romance, and that we are the ones who have kept it alive and spread its fame throughout the world.

New Editor For Brick Pile

Kenneth Coveney, associate editor of the Collegian, will make his debut with an essay entitled "The Church and Secular Education."

The new issue will feature more short stories of the type found to be popular on the campus, and a reversal in the nature of the feature: "We Recommend for Chinese Torture," which this month attacks a large number of idle gossipers and their destructive propaganda by presenting the students' view of one of the most popular figures on the Moraga campus, who has recently been the target for much ridicule. This department, it was announced, will henceforth alternate its views betwen criticism and praise, the former having been its characteristic since the founding of the magazine.

In addition to essays, short stories, and poetry, the usual absorbing continued features, travelogues by the student writers will appear. The appearance of the issue will be similar to its predecessors, with different campus photographs decorating the covers.

Margaret Sullavan
says Luckies are the answer for her throat

"I am not sure which is more critical —a Broadway audience or the movie microphones. At any rate, whether in Hollywood or New York, an actress has to be certain that her performances are always up to the peak. And that means being careful of the voice and throat. That's why, though I enjoy smoking thoroughly, I try to use judgment in the cigarette I choose. When I first began smoking, Luckies were my choice, because I found this light smoke advisable for my throat. And that's as true today as ever. Luckies are still my standby."

Margaret Sullavan

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Sullavan verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

New Blood

THIS WEEK'S edition finds new editors, new writers, and new blood in all departments. Elias Welch, probably the most capable editor to head this publication in several years, and an experienced and competent staff step out of the picture, making way for a new group. The retiring staff has set high standards that will be difficult to attain. Elias Welch has been an editor with new ideas, and he has made the Collegian the modern and up-to-date publication that it is today. The new staff cannot expect to surpass in that respect, but by striving to adhere to the standards they can at least follow the example set, and by so doing, approach the excellence attained under the past regime.

The Collegian has always been a student publication, written, published, and edited by the students. The Collegian has always attempted to maintain a strictly non-partisan view in the various campus problems. A fair treatment of all matters has been the intention of the staff, and this is as it should be, for when any group attempts to dictate the policy and procedure of any other group, it is getting decidedly out of place. The Collegian has never fallen into that error in the past year, and it is sincerely hoped that it will not do so in the year to come.

It is to be definitely understood, therefore, that the Collegian shall support no one group, shall favor no particular persons, and shall express no one single view, but shall attempt to give both sides of every question. Further, the Collegian shall be open to any and all suggestions for improvement. Any signed opinions will be given a place in the columns of this publication. The editors of the Collegian will attempt to serve the student body, to think first of the college, and to report news as news and not as small-time propaganda.

In the ensuing year personal prejudices and opinions must, and will be, forgotten. The new staff has been entrusted with a very specific and important duty—that of serving Saint Mary's College. Each member of this new group will strive to do exactly that to the best of his ability. The retiring staff have done that remarkably well and it is up to the new group to attempt to do the same.

With these intentions and views, therefore, a new staff takes over—if they will serve their college as others before them have done, they may consider their work well done.

Thank You Dance

TONIGHT the freshmen of the college will present the first dance since the Junior Prom and the first dance to follow the Lenten season. It is to be held at the Claremont Country Club and no expense or trouble has been spared to make it a complete success. The freshmen have selected their music and locale wisely, and the evening should prove to be one that will be remembered as an outstanding event of the social season.

In all activities so far this year the finest support has come from the freshman class. They have willingly given their full support to all worthwhile activities on the campus. This is an opportunity to make some return for that willing cooperation. Every class expects and asks the cooperation of the yearling class—it is only right that some cooperation be returned. The dance needs only that cooperation to be a success, and there should be no hesitation on the part of any student in giving it. The freshmen do not hesitate to get behind campus activities and are deserving of the whole-hearted support of the entire student body. Lend your support to the freshman class tonight by attending the Freshman Thank You Dance at the Claremont Country Club.

Homecoming

NEXT SUNDAY old acquaintances will be renewed and old times will be discussed on the campus as hundreds of alumni gather for their annual Homecoming Day.

In the heart of every former Saint Mary's man there is a love that he holds for his college, a love that he is not ashamed to profess and a love that on many occasions in the past he has shown through his many courtesies toward the school.

Because the members of the alumni have been so loyal to the cause of their college during the years that have followed their graduations, the present student body has joined with the committee in charge of the day to make this Homecoming worthy of the men making the pilgrimage to the campus.

Beginning with Mass in the chapel and continuing on throughout the day, a fine program characteristic of these days in the past has been arranged. It is a program that will at the same time be educational and entertaining, and will in some degree illustrate the high regard in which Saint Mary's holds its alumni.

During the past few months, the college has met with various criticisms from outside forces, but always the graduates of the school have come to the front to combat the charges and defend their college. For these and many other favors, Saint Mary's is grateful and therefore the Associated Students join with the administration in extending to the members of the Alumni Association a sincere and hearty welcome.

Brick Pile To Go?

HAILED with enthusiasm when the first issue appeared on the campus, and extolled as one of the oustanding additions to student activties within recent years, the last edition of the Brick Pile was greeted with withering indifference. Every student agreed that here was an undertaking which reflected credit upon the college as well as affording a splendid opportuity for the development of campus literary talent. The sales of the first issue were gratifying; however, as in the case with so many other undertakings on the campus which have started out with high hopes, the subsequent results have been disheartening.

The point is that here is something worthy of support, not only because the maintenance of such a publication will lend prestige to the school, but because the material contained in it is worth while reading. Even the avid readers of the pulp magazines might find something to interest them if they took the trouble to investigate. This lethargic attitude on the part of the students seems unexplainable. Whether it is because they have no interest in the activities of the student body or because they have never examined the Brick Pile and are ignorant of its contents is difficult to say. Whatever the cause, this attitude is spelling the doom of something which deserves a better fate.

The men who have founded and made possible this magazine have worked untiringly to make it a success and representative of Saint Mary's College, but without the necessary aid of the rest of the students all their work will be fruitless. One or two men cannot make a thing a success, and in spite of the efforts of the editor and his associates the Brick Pile will die an untimely death, leaving the College decidedly the poorer for its demise.

Moraga Musings

While changes are being made throughout the entire paper, the Muser still remains unknown, unchanged. He goes on and on in his tiresome, anonymous way.

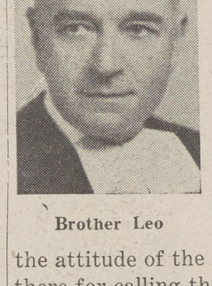
OUTLOOKS & INSIGHTS

By BROTHER LEO

BEST AND WORST

Even student papers sometimes get things wrong, so perhaps we should not accept a news item in the Bruin of U. C. L. A. as the law and the prophets. But, assuming that the professor did say what he is said to have said, this is his saying:



Brother Leo

"California has the best educational system in the world and the attitude of the students is the worst of any in my experience. They are not getting an education, but merely taking, copying or borrowing lecture notes, and trying to put them into bluebooks in a form pleasing to the professor."

Evidently Dr. Floyd F. Burtchett, assistant professor of banking and finance, doesn't think a tree should be judged by its fruits. One might reasonably ask, If the attitude of the students is the worst, what justification is there for calling the system the best in the world?

Dr. Burtchett adds that running the university costs $1,500 an hour. Are we, the citizens of California, getting our money's worth?

THE SPOILERS

John Keats once wrote of his friend, Leigh Hunt:

"Hunt does one harm by making fine things petty and beautiful things hateful. Through him I am indifferent to Mozart, I care not for white busts—and many a glorious thing when associated with him becomes a nothing."

How far this was an accurate estimate of Hunt's influence, it is impossible to say; Hunt was in many ways an admirable man and an estimable writer, and in charity we might well conjecture that Keats — a poet in a mood—wrote with unconscious overstatement. But if he hasn't described Leigh Hunt, he has described some men—and some teachers. He has called our attention to the evil touch.

Owing to some constitutional defect, commonly lack of warm human sympathy, and to a fatal angularity of vision, some men have but to praise a thing to make that thing henceforth contaminated in the minds and souls of others. I surmise that this was a prime trait of the Pharisees; they had but to speak of religion and the law to make the one odious and the other an unbearable burden.

ALWAYS WITH US

In Rostand's "Chantecler," the character of the Blackbird stands out in sinister distinctness. The Blackbird is perky, flippant and inquisitive; he is a scathing critic and something of a wit; he knows the weak points of everybody and dilates on them with unctious satisfaction.

Patou, the faithful dog, wins the Blackbird's contempt, because Patou is commonplace and devoted. When the Hen Pheasant flies over the wall and explains her plight to Chantecler, the Blackbird squirms and smirks and winks knowingly; for the Blackbird is a cad who has lost faith in hens. Nor does the Blackbird vote along party lines; while professing to be devoted to Chantecler and the interests of the barnyard, he makes no secret of flitting off at night and joining in the conspiracy of the owls.

Rostand, carrying out the whim of putting bills and feathers on human beings for their brief traffic on the stage, knew what he was about when he created the Blackbird. For the Blackbird, divested of his feathers, we have ever with us. In every community, in every parish, in every family, the Blackbird nonchalantly struts. He is fascinating at times, and his cleverness makes us all laugh; but later we sigh because there is a sting of bitterness in all his mirth.

Without heart, without the finer feelings of a man is the Blackbird. He rails at social evils, but his railing does more harm than good. He makes epigrams against malefactors of great wealth, but he kindles no fire of charity for the shivering poor of God. He can criticize a sermon, but he fails to practice the most elemental preachment of Christian truth.

The Bystander

By JACK REILLEY

Whenever members of a new staff take over a paper they usually do so by proclaiming the virtues of the men they have replaced and with deprecatory remarks about their own abilities. It has become a journalistic tradition. New editors, feature writers, and columnists, to a man devote their first efforts to lauding the worth of their predecessors and proclaiming the fact that they are decidedly lacking in the necessary qualities, usually feeling in their hearts that within a few weeks they will have made the readers forget all about the other fellow.

On the other hand, there are times when the disparity between the new man and the old is so great that even the replacer recognizes it. This is, as I know, and you will shortly, the case with the change in Bystanders. When I say, therefore, that I look forward with a great deal of trepidation to the task of filling Frank Martin's size fourteen literary brogans it is not just syrup to soothe the spirits of a departing veteran.

It would, after all, be rather silly and certainly presumptious, for me to atempt to extoll the abilities and accomplishments of Frank, for they are as well known to you as they are to me. His Bystander spoke for itself. On the other hand, it would be foolish for me to advise you of my inabilities, because they will become obvious to you from issue to issue, if they haven't already.

Another "must" for all new staff members is a declaration of policy; a reiteration of the old or the proclaiming of a new one. However, in a column of this nature it is impossible to say just what its policy or plan will be. Of course I would like to say that it will be as it has been in the past, but that would not be strictly honest, for no two bystanders see alike, not even when they are looking at the same object. I can merely say, that as the new Bystander I will attempt to see events as Matthew Arnold said, steadily and whole, and present my impressions of them as best I can.

Thought for the Week

"Conventionality is not morality. Self-righteousness is not religion. To attack the first is not to assail the last. To pluck the mask from the face of the Pharisee is not to lift an impious hand to the Crown of Thorns." — Charlotte Bronte.

TIP-TOE

"Everyone should now and then muggle up from the deep fathoms of slumber between the hours of 4 and 5 a. m. It's the climatic hour when all existence seems to pause as though swooped into sudden, bewildering stillness. Poised to plunge or go on.

Hospitals recognize it, and nurses become especially tip-toey. It is the hour when the slender cord of life so often snaps. The hour when the city noises crescendo from the slow melody of the pagan to strident jazz. The hour when night throws off its shadowy cloak to become another day.

Everything seems portentous. One is riding betwixt a world that has gone and a world being born. No coloring is so exquisite as that suffusing sheen of an approaching day. This morning I saw a star twinkle out and in the frozen quiet it became a flash of drama.

A fluff of cloud that ordinarily would pass unnoticed took on the quality of wonder, changing from gray to sea-water green to shell pink and then in a chiffoning burst of splendor to the blood-red poppy. A prelude to that disk of polished copper that is the sun."—O. O. McIntyre.

EVERY DAY AN ADVENTURE

"Nothing muddies the sheen of our days so completely as the habit of taking things for granted. Now that my eyes are open to this truth, my senses find miracles and loveliness everywhere in things I once overlooked: the sunny flavor of orange juice and the ruby redness of currant jelly on hot brown toast; a green bowl filled with vermillion petals — zinnias from a neighbor's garden, their centers minute yellow stars; in the gray dawn a robin's song, crimson clear against the brown chirp of sparrows; rain, and under its luminous gray mist, grass glowing like green flame—April rain. Everyday brings with it some new sense of exquisite regard for common things. And no matter how or where old age finds me, that remembered beauty will be with me, lending color to any possible bleakness."— Eleanor B. Stock, "That We May Have Roses in December."

COLOR

In a composition course (no, we're not trying to sell the course, of course) the instructor has been making much of the color in writing. A good thing, color: it makes the world interesting. We don't speak of just the restricted color of things here; but of that inestimable, intangible something in a thing that gives it character and beauty: like the color of our faith; the color of your best friend; a sunset; a hill; a passing face; a fleeting thought; and fleeting phrases that catch the essences of things—they all possess color in different ways.

Well, the idea is that your correspondent (Collegiana brings all things) decided to dish you a little color this week, and so the quotes above about giving you what we think is colorful prose.

ASIDE

In the olden days when "giddy-ap" was the synonym for our present day "Give 'er the gas,' it was the custom to retire old horses to lush pastures, so that the faithful animals could have a little bit of heaven before they passed into the limbo of animals. Some horses, as you know, were used on fire wagons; and these animals were as adept at answering the fire alarm as their upright masters. When they got old these horses were retired. But the dern fools didn't have the sense to enjoy their rest: they always persisted on answering the fire alarm and running to the fire. They wanted to die in harness.

Now, (Please don't listen to those on the property who would lead you to believe that I resemble only part of a horse) I, Collegiana, am like that horse limping around in the first paragraph, in that I have not got the sense to enjoy my green pastures: I want to die in harness; I keep answering the fire alarm.

Which means that you will have to bear with my drivel until the end of this semester. And then, (don't let me kid you, I really know little Latin) "Sic transit Collegiana as written by this thing." Now I know how the Supreme Court justices must feel, twenty thousand or no twenty thousand.
